GRANITE CITY — A proposed ordinance to make it illegal to board up buildings withinthe city limits is "part of a condity laws, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney said.

The proposed ordinance calls for a fine of from $10 to $50 per day for violations. Temporary extensive damage would be permitted, but for 90 days only. The ordinance is on final review at the March 16 council meeting.
Partney opinted to a boardedXIh Place and said it had been that way for more than a year.
"You can see someone has knocked some of the boards out,
We need to force the owner to do something, either fix it or tear it down. Ninety days gives enough time to settle with the insurance company and start rebuilding." Partney said.

"There is nothing that destroys a neighborhood like boarded-up buildings. If you were driving through here with a U-Haul trailer, does this look that the same that stop the deterioration of our neighborhoods."

Along with the bad looks, boarded buildings mean insur-ble the bad looks, boarded buildings mean insur-site to the bad looks of maybe cancel it (insurance cov-erage) completely," said Part-ney said.

His ward has at least a half dozen boarded houses and he said such buildings could be found in most other wards "if you went looking."

At the March 1 council meeting, the chairman of the Ordinance Committee, 5th Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey, refused to read the proposed ordinance to support it."

Instead, Partney read it and stressed he was sacking first.

Company soliciting subscriptions sued
Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan has filed a consumer fraud lawsuit against an Illinois-based company, Neighborhood Periodical Club of Illinois Inc., that allegedly uses high-pressure telephone solicitation factics to sell magazine subscriptions on an installment basis to consumers nation-wide.

Deceptive practices allegedly used were promises of free gifts, representation that the consumer had "won" the chance to participate in the company's plan and failure, in some cases, to honor the consumer's three-day right to cancel subscriptions.

BELLEVILLE — Belleville Area College's special Chancellor Recruitment and Screening Committee held its first meeting Feb. 23 to discuss what is needed in a candidate to replace Dec. 12 as chancellor.

The BAC Board of Trustees at its Feb. 17 meeting gave official approval for the 13-member committee to begin its quest. Deane Wiley, former dean of University at Edwardsville, is the committee chairman.

Wiley told the committee there probably would be several types of people in the running for the job.

probably wound be several types of people in the running for the property of people in the running for the "There are people who are nominated, people who get the appropriate number of nominations and people who ware now that the people in the last two groups." The committee's next scheduled meeting is Tuesday at BAC's Belleville Campus.

The search committee is comprised of seven community reperty of the seven board members; four internal college representatives, representing the three unions and the administration; and a student representative. BAC Personnel Director Larry sor to the committee.

On Dec. 17, the board named B.J. Davis, the 1968-84 superintendent of the Granite City School District, as interim chancelior. At the time Davis was hired, it was mutually agreed that he would not be a candidate for the position permanently.

Committee members debated and discussed a wide range of attributes and qualifications they felt are necessary in a chancel-lor, from teaching and adminis-trative experience in higher edu-cation to expertise in financial planning and collective bargain-ing.

planning and collective bargaining.

One common thread throughout the discussion was members' desire to find someone who would be able to unify the college's administration, staff and forties claim he failed to do.

"It would see the new chancellor as one who would unite all three groups," said science teacher Leo Welch, president of BAC's Faculty Senate and the faculty's committee representathancellor follow a pattern of "collegiality and shared overnance."

But Lee Knoebel, financial aid director at the college's Granite City Campus and the administration's committee representatives. Collegiaity and shared governance is not my cup of tea, "Knoebel said. "Being able to develop team spirit and go in a you also need someone to standout in front and take the heat. I see the two words as a conflict." "I think you have to get down to some sort of cooperation, no with the committee Margerum. David Burton Morris' "Patti ocks" (2 stars) is one of those mall-budget films ($350,000) a riter is cautious about recom-lending because of the raunchy teme and scabrous dialogue.

heme and scabrous dialogue. This definitely is not a picture or your dear aunt Millie, unless untie is a thoroughly modern fillie with a high blush level. Hillie with a high blush level, massaid with regard to the differnce between male and female quipuge and the employment of the same for mutual pleasure in its otherwise welf-acted study wing on the far side of paralise.

Chris Mulkey is Billy Regis, an infantile, wild, self-centered stud, a no-account husband who has been fiddling around on the side with as many women as he can get his mitts on.

Real mandry egnated during the course of an out-of-town affair, and John Jenkins is Eddie Hassit, Billy's divorced and sad-eyed pal who accompanies his friend on a nefarious mission through bleak and inhose assignment: help craven Billy tell Patti that her voracious lover is a married man with two children and their relationship is kaput.

The film is an inelegant extension of the 1976 film "Loose Ends," Morris shoestring drama written with Victoria Wozniak about rootles youths fighting off entry the state of the control of the c
